

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10, 1891.

The Speaker's question is the absorbing one here now. The impression seems to be that personal feelings will not be regarded in the selection, but that as a democratic President is the main object to be achieved, the members of a democratic House will determine upon the man whose election will be most conducive to that end. It is understood that most of the democratic members are as yet undecided, and will not select their respective favorites until they reach here.

A New York manufacturer, here to day, says his firm were assessed and paid $5,000 for the republican election fund, and that he knows of another and larger firm that paid as much as $25,000.

Col. L. Q. Washington in talking this morning about ex-Congressman Gravenor's interview, to the effect that the democrats would make their next campaign under Cleveland, and on a one plank tariff platform, remarked that if the republicans were not only to select the democratic candidate, but the democratic platform also, there would be very little use in keeping up the democratic organization.

The U. S. Supreme Court to-day postponed until November 30th the argument in the cases involving the constitutionality of the McKinley tariff act. The hearing in the Behring Sea sealeries case was resumed this morning. Solicitor General Taft continuing his argument.

Congressman McMillin of Tennessee, a prominent candidate for the Speakership of the next House, now here, says the result of the recent elections necessarily makes the tariff the absorbing question of the next campaign, and that to secure low tariff and the eternal annihilation of the Force bill, all other things will be made subordinate.

Mr. Clarkson had an interview with the President this morning in reference to the selection of the place for the next national republican convention. It is understood the President is opposed to Chicago, as the republicans of that city have shown their predilection for Judge Graham.

The U. S. ship Dolphin, when repaired and refurnished, will be used as the Presidential junketing boat in place of the lost Dispatch.

Some comment was caused in the Department by the receipt of a cablegram late yesterday evening from Minister Egan, couched in the Navy Department cypher, giving some details in official form, of events already reported by Capt. Schley. The explanation assumed is that the Minister fears that the integrity of the State Department cypher had not been preserved, and has for that reason availed himself of the indiscoverable cryptogram used by the Navy Department.

The cotton returns of the Department of Agriculture for November are not favorable for a high rate of yield. The yield in Virginia averages 151 pounds per acre.

Passed Assistant Surgeon J. D. Gatewood, of the United States Navy, was to-day detached from the Dispatch and granted two months leave.

Congressman Springer, a candidate for Speaker of the next House, says he thinks the better course for the democrats in the next House to pursue in respect of the tariff, as the Senate and President Cleveland would be not to attack the McKinley bill as a whole, but to select certain individual parts of it for assault, in which way, he says, he thinks, much good might be effected.

A member of the Cabinet in talking about the Brazilian affair to-day said he anticipated there would be trouble in Brazil, and that he thought the expected arrival of the heir of the late Emperor might be due either to President Fonseca, or to his opponents.

COME TOGETHER AGAIN.—After thirteen years' separation and search, Arthur K. Wilson, a wealthy citizen of Morris, Minn., has discovered his lost wife in Wichita, Kas. Fourteen years ago Wilson and Miss Marie Andrews were married in Sioux City, Iowa. After a year of wedlock, Wilson suddenly disappeared from home, and Mrs. Wilson went to Omaha, where, in 1885, she procured a divorce and married a young business man named Fleming. Four years ago the couple moved to Missouri; but they had hardly reached there before Fleming was arrested for forgery, for which he is now serving a term in the Nebraska penitentiary. A couple of years ago a former acquaintance, who communicated with Wilson, recognized Mrs. Fleming in Wichita. Her first husband explained his disappearance from home satisfactorily to his ex-wife, and Mrs. Fleming has agreed to procure a divorce and remarry Wilson.

MISS WINNIE DAVIS'S NAME FORGED.—Several days ago a leading merchant of Nashville, Tenn., received a letter from Jersey City, N. J., signed Winnie Davis, asking the immediate loan of a thousand dollars until she could repay it from the receipts of her mother's book. He handed the letter to a man familiar with Miss Davis's handwriting. He pronounced it a forgery. The letter was, however, enclosed to Miss Davis at Richmond, and a telegraphic answer was received denouncing it as a forgery. There is little doubt that they were written by S. H. Doddard, the forger, who lies in the Hudson county, N. J., jail.

OPENED AN INDIAN MOUND.—An Indian mound was opened yesterday on the farm of Isaac Elliott Kean, near King Wood, Va., in which were found many valuable relics, including rough gold jewelry, arrows, tomahawks, and some curiously fashioned weapons, evidently intended for slinging stones. ## Foreign News.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The release from prison of M. Lafargue, the socialist leader, who was elected a member of the chamber of deputies on Sunday, was made the occasion last night for great jubilation by the various workmen's societies. They organized processions which marched through various streets, and were so disorderly that the police dispersed them. The government will return Lafargue to his place of confinement to serve out the remainder of his term upon the conclusion of the labor of the French Parliament.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—Nally, the man who was prominent in the Mayo conspiracy, and who was in 1882 convicted of sedition and sent to prison, has died in jail. Nally's term of imprisonment would have expired at the end of the current month.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—A sad accident is reported from Naas, County Kildare. The seat of Lord Cloncurry is situated near Naas. The mansion is situated on extensive grounds and one of the beauties of the place is a large extensive lake. To-day, while some of the keepers were walking along the shores of the lake, they saw something in the water which attracted their attention, and procuring suitable implements they dragged the object, which proved to be a body, ashore. Their observation may be imagined when, upon leading the body and examining it, they found it to be that of the Hon. Rose Lawless, youngest sister of Lord Cloncurry. The family was immediately notified of the body and the remains were tenderly removed to the house of her brother. No further details of the sad affair have been received, and it is a matter of conjecture as to how the young lady met her death.

MADRID, Nov. 10.—The tremendous floods which have swept over so many parts of Spain during the last month or so are without parallel in the history of the country. The total loss of life amounts in the thousands and the amount of property destroyed is incalculable.

The Cyclone in India.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 10.—As further details regarding the cyclone which passed over this part of India on Monday of last week are received it is seen that the damage done is very extensive. Besides the loss of 77 lives, occasioned by the sinking of the steamer Enterprise at the Andaman Islands and the killing of 60 convicts, there no doubt has been large loss of life at other places along the coast. Advances from various parts of Orissa, a province of India in Bengal, state that the cyclone did great damage. The cyclone cleared a path through the forests, uprooting gigantic trees and hurling them aside as though they were reeds. Every dwelling or other structure in the path of the cyclone was either swept from its foundations or literally picked up, turned over and deposited at some distance from the place where it had originally stood. The wind also did much damage in the vicinity of Calcutta. A large number of vessels were anchored off the mouths of the river. These vessels were in such a position that when the gale suddenly burst it was impossible to save many of them. Numbers were carried ashore, while others were damaged by the pounding by the enormous seas which accompanied the storm. No estimate can as yet be made of the total loss of life, but from all the details received, it is known positively that the number of persons drowned or killed by falling trees or flying debris is very large. Several of the crew of the wrecked Enterprise were rescued by a number of female convicts who formed a life-line by joining hands and dragged ashore the drowning men.

Chased the Clergman.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 10.—On last Friday night James Brock, a farmer of South Solon, who long had reason to believe his wife was not true to him, intercepted a letter written to her by the Rev. Mr. Mowbray, pastor of the Baptist Church of that place, who has a wife and five children. The letter disclosed a plan for Mrs. Brock and Mowbray to elope. The evidence was so clear that there was little or no chance for denial, and Brock forthwith denounced his wife and sent her home to her father. Sunday afternoon Brock met Mowbray on the highway and ran after him for four miles, soiling him whenever opportunity offered. It is reported that Mowbray has fled.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 10.—Miss Adelle Jaramillo was shot and killed in the waiting room of the depot at Los Lunas, twenty miles south of this city, last night by Frank Romero, son of a wealthy democratic politician of Valencia county. Yesterday afternoon while H. Sibert, John Brinkman and Fred Larson were out on the river at Vermillion, S. They were all considerably under the influence of liquor and the jury returned a verdict of death from chills and the effects of liquor.

A GREAT MAGAZINE.

The Century's Programme in 1892—A New "Life of Columbus"—Articles for Farmers, etc.

The great American periodical, The Century, is going to outdo its own unrivalled record in its programme for 1892, and as many of its new features begin with the November number, new readers should commence with that issue. In this number are the opening chapters of "The Natchez," a novel by Rudyard Kipling, the famous author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," written in collaboration with an American writer, Wolcott Balestier. It is the story of a young man and a young woman from a "booming" Colorado town, who go to India, he in search of a wonderful medicine called "Natchez," from which the story takes its name, and she as a physician to women. The novel describes their remarkable adventures at the court of an Indian maharajah. Besides this, The Century will print three other novels during the year, and a great number of short stories by the best American story-writers.

The well-known humorist Edgar W. Nye ("Bill Nye") is to write a series of amusing sketches which he calls his "autobiographies," the first one of which, "The Autobiography of a Justice of the Peace," is in November. This number also contains a valuable and suggestive article on "The Food Supply of the Future," which every farmer and householder should read, and a number of others of great practical value to farmers, treating especially of the relations of the government to the farmer, what it is doing and what it should do. This series will include contributions from officers of the Department of Agriculture, and other well-known men who will discuss "The Farmer's Discontent," "Co-operation," etc., etc.

A celebrated Spanish writer is to furnish a "Life of Columbus," which will be brilliantly illustrated, and the publishers of The Century have arranged with the managers of the World's Fair to print articles on the buildings, etc.

One of the novels to appear in 1892 is A Story which had been written by the author of "The Angeli-maniacs," and the magazine will contain a great deal about the metropolis during the year, among other things a series of illustrated articles on "The Jews in New York." In November is an illustrated description of "The Players' Club," founded by Edwin Booth, and one of the features of the splendidly illustrated Christmas (December) number is an article on "The Bowery."
